Indian Pacific Rail Journey

The Indian Pacific traverses Australia from coast to coast, between the sparkling waters of the Indian and the Pacific Oceans.

Setting off from Perth, the train climbs through the scenic Avon Valley and into Western Australia’s expansive wheat belt before arriving at the first stop in Kalgoorlie. There is plenty to see and do in this historic town with its old pubs, heritage architecture and the extraordinary floodlit Super Pit goldmine. Witness Australia’s vast open spaces as you cross the Nullarbor Plain, before a brief stop at Cook, one of the world’s most isolated townships with a population of just four.

The city of Adelaide is your next stop and it’s here you can choose to break your journey or take an Off Train Excursion and indulge in an abundance of food, wine and history. Continue on to Broken Hill and learn of the town’s colourful culture on an Off Train Excursion. Make your way through the spectacular Blue Mountains to your final destination of Sydney.

Outback Experiences

When travelling west (Sydney to Perth) enjoy an Outback Experience at Rawlinna. Step off the train and be wined and dined under a canopy of stars. While travelling east (Perth to Sydney) there’s a morning experience along the Nullarbor and time to explore the ghost town of Cook.

Off Train Excursions

Whether you are travelling Sydney to Perth or Perth to Sydney aboard the Indian Pacific, the Off Train Excursions are designed to take in the area’s best sights. From Perth to Sydney, this includes tours of the mining mecca of Kalgoorlie, the smorgasbord of sights and smells at the Adelaide Central Market or an Adelaide City Sights Tour and then on to historic Broken Hill. From Sydney to Perth, there’s a tour of Broken Hill, extended touring of Adelaide with your choice of a Barossa Valley visit that includes a spectacular dinner, the gastronomic delights of the Adelaide Hills, or a tour of the city that concludes with an equally sumptuous dinner.

Highlights

- Dine in the Queen Adelaide Restaurant or Platinum Club (Platinum guests only) and sample contemporary Australian cuisine
- Visit the world renowned Barossa Valley on the Sydney to Perth Indian Pacific journey
- Enjoy an Off Train dining experience in Australia’s food and wine capital, Adelaide
- Be mesmerised by the spectacular sunrise or sunset along the Nullarbor Plain
